Choosing
to Change

Do you have the motivation to change your behaviour?

1-2-1 Intervention for men

Working in partnership, Relate Northamptonshire and Relate Coventry are pleased to be able to offer 'Choosing to Change'.

What is Choosing to Change?

Choosing to Change is an intervention for male perpetrators of intimate partner violence and abuse, delivered on a one-to-one basis where both partners want to remain in the couple relationship.

The intervention combines a specific structure and materials with skills, concepts and principles using the counselling approach of motivational interviewing.

Choosing to Change is a twelve week programme that includes assessment, structured motivational programme and goal setting. There is potential to move into couple counselling with a Relate Counsellor, if deemed safe to do so (additional sessions required for the couple work), although this is dependent on full engagement and a motivation to change.

Support sessions are also provided for the wife/partner and there is scope to enter family therapy once the full Choosing to Change programme and couple counselling has been completed.

Choosing to Change is currently available at Relate Northamptonshire and Relate Coventry.

Do you wish your relationship was more respectful and less threatening?

If you have ever used any of these behaviours then Choosing to Change may be able to help you:

- Called her names, humiliated her
- Checked her mobile phone, texts or emails
- Threatened her or damaged belongings
- Pushed, slapped, punched or kicked her

Do you wish you could be more honest and accountable for your behaviour?

What are the aims of the programme?

- To enable men to explore and accept responsibility for their behaviour
- To enhance motivation and engagement in men wanting to change their behaviour
- To enhance levels of importance and confidence around changing behaviour
- To reduce the escalation of controlling and/or abusive behaviour
- To begin the process of change and create healthy, respectful relationships
- To provide safe transition to enter couple counselling
